

BLOCK IV RISING

The USS Vermont, first of the Block IV series, is the dawn of a whole new level of capability for the Virginia Class. Increased stealth, improved surveillance capabilities, and the ability to support the missions of special operators, are like no other submarine in history. The spiral development of the Virginia Class continues as the team of Electric Boat and Newport News Shipbuilding, with hundreds of suppliers from across the country, delivers the US Navy's sixth submarine in three years.

There is no Substitute for Operational Excellence.
